Felt, Like It

Take a piece of industrial felt, add aluminum rivets and aged Argentinian leather and what do you get? Well if you are anyone other than Carga's Mauro Bianucci, probably a pile of nothing. Luckily for us, Mauro is the man behind this new line of felt carryalls, each precision-cut, assembled and hand-numbered.

The Briefcase ($245) is the perfect business companion with internal leather pockets and a detachable keyring all housed in thick, shock-absorbing wool felt (your laptop couldn't ask for more).

The Weekend ($320), with its large capacity, internal leather pocket, keyring and detachable pocket for electro-gadgets, is perfect for getting away and big enough for running away.

Exclusively at All Purpose in LA (I seem to be writing this alot, can we agree on XAPLA?)
